

Safety & Health Policy

---

British Sugar is committed to ensuring the safety, health and mental wellbeing of all of our people. We will also minimise any impact caused by our activities or processes to the safety and health of our contractors while working on any of our facilities and our neighbours who may be affected by our operations.

We will comply with all legal requirements and aim to continually improve our safety and health performance while providing a secure work environment, ensuring that all significant risks are assessed and effectively managed using proportionate risk-based principles through a prioritised approach within the framework of our Safety and Health Management System.

All our people, and those working on behalf of the company, have a responsibility for the safety and health of themselves and others who might be affected by their actions, with overall accountability for safety and health recognised as a prime responsibility for all those who manage and supervise.

This policy statement is communicated to everyone working at British Sugar including all contractors.

Paul Kenward
Managing Director